To Whom It May Concern

Angel Tan joined the Singtel Dash Marketing Communications team in November 2019 and it was an enjoyable journey of six months that I had working with her through many exciting and challenging projects.

A conscientious team player, Angel had demonstrated tenacity in the work she was tasked to complete. In coordinating with various departments to execute time sensitive promotions, she had proven herself to be reliable in meeting timelines and produce accurate work. Her desire to excel, time management skills and ability to adapt to evolving requirements are key to the successful execution of these projects.

On top of managing customer promotions, Angel had worked on a variety of social media campaigns. Her resourcefulness and passion towards marketing enabled her to develop mini-campaigns in a short span of time. Her curiosity also led her to ask interesting and in-depth questions, while she did her own research after work to strengthen her understanding of social media marketing. She contributed actively in our brainstorming sessions and often injected a breath of fresh air with her creative perspective.

Angel's pleasant personality, coupled with her positive attitude towards learning, has enabled her to build excellent rapport with her peers. She is highly organised and takes initiative to go beyond the parameters of her assigned work. She is a valuable team player whom I appreciate for her dedication and commitment. I will recommend Angel to any organisation and I believe she will grow to fill bigger roles.

Yours sincerely,
